

Viña Pedrosa

Reserva 2015

The 2015 vintage began in a winter with good water reserves in the subsoil. The warm, dry spring weather continued until June when heavy rainfall coincided with the onset of flowering. Summer brought the odd storm and was followed by a very dry autumn. Although the harvest was slightly earlier than usual, the analytical and organoleptic characteristics as well as the balance of the berries were ideal, which meant the fruit could be harvested at the perfect stage of ripeness.

Wines from this excellent vintage have a good colour intensity, significant fruity notes on the nose and a high tannic potential on the palate, with sweet tannins revealing the good phenolic ripening of the berries. This vintage is reminiscent of the exceptional 2005 vintage.

CONSERVATION AND PREFERRED CONSUMPTION

Average yield per hectare: 3,300 kg/ha

Production: 69,990 bottles of 75 cl and 2,990 magnums.

Bottling date: January 2018.

Alcohol content: 14.5%

AWARDS:

Guía Gourmets  97 puntos

Guía Peñin  93 puntos

Robert Parker  93 puntos

